

Attention to detail, creativity, vision, cost-effective designs, and the ability to lead, and be led—these are the essentials of a successful building project. And, they are the intangible attributes you'll find in every candidate we place. We're The Mergis Group®, the nation's premier source for Engineering and Architecture professionals.

An Engineering & Architecture Recruiting Expert

The Mergis Group is a high-touch, specialty recruiting leader founded on more than 30 years of workforce expertise. Our hands-on experience in the engineering and architecture industry has made us a valuable recruiting partner to hundreds of businesses seeking high-caliber professionals for their projects. Partnering together, we'll deliver the proven direct-hire and project-based professionals you need to succeed. We fill a broad range of Engineering and Architecture positions, including:

- Architects
- Civil Engineers
- Department Heads
- Drafters
- Electrical Engineers
- Environmental Engineers
- Geologists
- Interior Designers
- Mechanical Engineers
- Project Engineers
- Program Managers
- Structural Engineers

Hiring with a Buildings Industry Perspective

At The Mergis Group, we treat every talent placement with high priority and personalized focus. That means taking the time to understand your business, hiring objectives and company culture—and delivering candidates with the skills and mindset to thrive in your organization. Our recruiters understand the nuances of the buildings industry, and are able to apply their unique knowledge to your critical hiring initiatives. We seek out candidates that will bring you the greatest value, from strong design experience and the ability to manage schedules and budgets, to project setups with contractors and the expertise to see a project through from design document to post occupancy.

Our industry expertise spans five types of building projects: commercial, industrial, hospitality, healthcare and mission-critical initiatives. With deep insight into each industry, The Mergis Group is able to deliver professionals that will meet your specialized hiring criteria with pin-point accuracy. Because we understand the challenges and trends shaping these projects, we're proactive in our approach to finding talent that will meet your unique needs—from LEED-certified professionals for green building initiatives to individuals for government cleared projects.

Securing the Best Talent for Your Engineering & Architecture Projects

With The Mergis Group as your recruiting partner, you'll be supported by a team of seasoned experts who are focused on your individual hiring objectives. Tailoring our search to your specifications, we'll aggressively source professionals that are the best fit for your Engineering and Architecture positions, who are not actively marketing their skills. You see, the best candidates are not usually looking, they are found—those are the kind of professionals you want working for you. And, that's exactly what The Mergis Group delivers!

For proven engineering and architecture professionals who will bring tremendous value and expertise to your projects, contact The Mergis Group—*Your Bridge for the Best Hire*SM!

